

STAFF TRAINING ON SERVICE-LEARNING & COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Martedì 11 aprile 2017

Palazzina della Viola, Via Filippo Re 4, Bologna

Ore 10.00 - 13.00 Workshop 1

Implementazione e istituzionalizzazione del Service-Learning nelle università

Linee guida per l'istituzionalizzazione del Service Learning & Community Engagement

Prof. Bruna Zani - Università di Bologna

Designing a plan for the institutionalization of Service-Learning

Prof. Pilar Aramburuzabala - Universidad Autonoma de Madrid, Spain

Buffet Lunch

Ore 14.00 - 16.30 Workshop 2

Una nuova modalità di insegnamento "con e per" la comunità locale

A Pattern Language for Service Learning and Campus Community Partnerships - a Tool for Innovative Teaching in Higher Education Institutions

Prof. Wolfgang Stark – University of Duisburg- Essen, Germany

"If campus-community-partnerships and service learning approaches are successful, they most often will use experiential knowing, mindfulness and playfulness. In the workshop you will earn practical knowledge and experience with a tool which is based on the experience-based and often 'implicit' parts of practical wisdom of many campus-community-partnerships. You will learn how to use the patterns of practical wisdom for community building in a playful way by using the pattern language as a card game".

BREVE CURRICULUM DEI RELATORI

Pilar Aramburuzabala coordinates the European project "Europe Engage - Developing a Culture of Civic Engagement through Service-Learning Within Higher Education in Europe". The 3-year project aims at promoting service-learning as a pedagogical approach that develops civic engagement in higher education and the creation of a European network.

Since 2008 Dr. Aramburuzabala has oriented her research interests towards the fields of service-learning and education for social justice. She studies evidence on how service-learning affects dimensions of human life/development that are related to purpose, such as self-awareness, identity development, moral reasoning, social consciousness and responsibility, civic engagement, and vocational clarity.

Dr Aramburuzabala works at the School of Teacher Training and Education of the Autonomous University of Madrid as an Associate Professor. She coordinates the Madrid Network for the Promotion of Service-Learning. She is a member of the Higher Education Service-Learning Network -ApS(U)-, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Spanish Service-Learning Network. She has been working in service-learning projects with university students since 2000. On this topic she has lectured, published, coordinated monographic issues and organized national and international conferences. She represents ApS(U) at the Spanish University Rectors Council and Talloires Network.

Member of the research group "Educational Change for Social Justice" (GICE), and the Board of Directors of the International Journal of Education for Social Justice (RIEJS). Guest editor of the monographic issue on Service-Learning for Social Justice of RIEJS, vol. 2, 2. Organized the VI Conference of the Spanish Service-Learning Network in 2013 and the V Conference of the Spanish University Service-Learning Network in 2014.

Wolfgang Stark is teaching as professor for Organizational and Community Psychology and is founder and director of the Organizational Development Laboratory (www.orglab.org), and scientific director of the Center for Societal Learning and Social Responsibility (www.uniaktiv.org), both based at the University of Duisburg-Essen in Germany. He serves as a distinguished visiting professor at the Strascheg Center for Entrepreneurship in Munich and at the Instituto Superior Psicologia Aplicada in Lisboa/Portugal. Wolfgang Stark is founding member and former president of the European Community Psychology Association. He is also Executive Director of the Center for Innovation and Sustainable Leadership, a member of the German-based Steinbeis Foundation (www.stw.de) and President of the Board of the German University Network 'Universities for Social Responsibility'. His research is specializing in community building and empowerment processes in organizations and society, and in organizational/societal learning and organizational culture by linking different disciplines and topics. In linking the arts and organizational science, he is keen to establish transdisciplinary knowledge base for societal innovation. His work has received various awards – among others a "Jimmy and Rosalyn Carter-Campus Community Partnership Award 2007", the German Federal President's Award as "Selected Landmark in the Land of Ideas 2008", Germany's Social Entrepreneurship Best Practice Award 2008 and as "Ort des Fortschritts 2014 (Location of the Future)" in North-Rhine-Westfalia).